Killed With Kindness.

There are some families the children in which are never addressed by their proper names; they are "Pet," "Dear," "Darling," "Precious," "Sweetest," "Tootsy," "Birdie" and "My Angel," and it is almost invariable, as a rule, that these children are peevish, passionate, ill-governed little creatures, who scream violently if they do not immediately get what they clamor for. It is not unusual to see a visitor in such a home left to solitude while the whole family work with frantic solicitude to find a lost toy or get some withheld pleasure for a spoiled child, and the child is never as happy as the less cared-for little one that is accustomed to amuse itself and taught to restrain its emotions until it is convenient to wait upon it. The world would have been without a moon ages ago, had it been possible for imbecile fathers and mothers to possess themselves of it, for their darling's sake.

The result of all this foolishness is an unhappy after life; the boy who has been petted out of all manliness and hard hood grows up to be a weak, selfish, tyrannical man, who imagines all women are like his mother—willing slaves to his whims and caprices; he does not marry a creature like himself and thus prevent two other lives from being spoiled, but he conceals his disposition and marries a girl whose heart he breaks with his selfishness. The spoiled and petted girl finds that a husband is not amused by her ebullitions of temper—that he regards her as a lunatic when she beats her head on the carpet, and screams, and that he has no idea of humoring a thousand silly, unwomanly whims, as her mother did, and she turns out a wretched, disappointed woman. Both of these were morally killed with kindness.

It does not necessarily follow that love, deep, fond, parental love, need be excluded from the home circle, for if not found there where then may it be looked for? but let it be the love that is to make character, not mar it, that chasteneth for its own good, that shall make the heart pure, the feet strong, the spirit willing to bear the burden of life, when the dear parents have gone to the home beyond. That shall be a legacy better than gold to the children who must make their own way in the world.

"But what if Will die?" says some mother who dares not punish or restrain a naughty child, lest some day she would be tormented with remorse.

Take a moment, mother! Are you bringing up your child to die? Are you not educating him to live, both for this world and another? And can you not feel very sure that if he is a good citizen of this world he will be one of the ones that follows this? If he is good and great and unselfish, ministering to the sorrowing, helping the weak, serving his Master loyally here, will he not be worthy of Heaven hereafter, and does it not rest with you to make him so? Is he not more than your pet dog, Fidele, whom you also call "pet" and "darling"?

We have heard of a timorous little woman who used to sit up with the stars waiting for a great, ugly, tipsy husband to come home, and when, in the early morning hours, he stumbled up the stairs, she would meet him with a smile and the greeting: "Is that you, Birdie?" And we cannot help thinking that if she had welcomed him with a metaphorical shower-bath of ice-water and a few resolute words, "Birdie" might have been awakened to a sense of his shame and made haste to do better.

The gospel of gush enervates; the kindness that does not kill, but makes alive, is strengthened by laws as infallible as those of the Medes and Persians.—Detroit Post and Tribune.

Fight with a Pennsylvania Bear.

Late one evening last week a messenger arrived in Sabinsville in quest of a surgeon to dress the wounds of a man that had been rightfully mangled by a bear. About five miles east of there, on what is known as the "Barrens," a wild, desolate country, lives Abraham Gould, more familiarly known as "Old Abe," who subsists by hunting, fishing and primitive farming. About four o'clock on the day mentioned he shouldered his gun and went in search of his cows. When about a mile from his cabin, in a dense piece of woods, he heard a loud noise in the bush and dry leaves some distance ahead of him, and true to his instinct as a woodsman, commenced a noiseless approach to ascertain the cause. Creeping to within a few yards of the place whence came the noise, he aroused a female bear and her two cubs that were playfully rolling about in the leaves. The mother bear immediately prepared to give "Old Abe" a warm reception, and accordingly reared upon her hind legs and advanced to extend the right paw of fellowship and engage in a friendly embrace.

Quick as flash, the trusty rifle that had never failed to respond when called upon, came firmly to the old man's shoulder, and two shots that seemed almost simultaneous took effect in the body of the bear. This only served to increase her fury, and before the gun could be reloaded the beast, whose eyes seemed balls of fire, and whose growls indicated her anger, sprang rapidly forward with jaws extended.

The woodsman clubbed his gun and prepared to barter his life at the highest market price, but the weapon was forced from his hands in an instant, and his body was encircled in the deadly embrace of the infuriated animal, as she closed her jaws upon his left arm. At this moment, when it seemed that the pioneer must surrender his life, he drew, with his right hand, a long hunting-knife from its sheath and buried it in the heart of his combatant. A terrific grasp, and she released her paws and fell back to the ground dead; but her jaws were set in the agonies of death upon his left forearm, and it almost seemed as if the "victor" was doomed to be vanquished, for only by superhuman effort was he able to release himself from the vise-like grip of the dead monster. His arm was broken and terribly lacerated, two ribs were fractured, besides innumerable gashes upon his back from the claws of the bear. He succeeded in reaching his cabin more dead than alive, and is now receiving proper surgical attention with a fair prospect of recovery. The old man says that "for a clean out-and-out war he bar kin knock the spots off from anything living." —Albionia Press.

Robert Harris, a poor boatman, found 300 Spanish doubloons under the stump of a tree near the Pamlico River, in North Carolina, the other day. The finding of the coin has caused great excitement. Harris was offered $5,000 for his treasure. During the past hundred years periodical searches have been made on desolate sand-bars and islands on the North Carolina coast for treasure supposed to have been buried by the pirates, Captains Kidd and Blackbeard. From time to time money has been found.—N. O. Picayune.

It is claimed that pears grow to greater perfection in Shelby County, Alabama, than in any other portion of the United States. Some young orchards in the vicinity of Calera have trees bearing two bushels, worth there four dollars per bushel. An acre will grow 400 trees, which, when in full bearing, will be worth one hundred acres of cotton.

The sheriff of New York has appointed a Chinaman as his deputy.

MADAME ALBINI, the singer, has arrived at New York from Liverpool.

There is a pronounced revival of the prohibition sentiment in Kansas.

THE Tennessee legislature began battling for a United States Senator, Tuesday.

An attempt was made to assassinate the Sultan at Constantinople on Saturday.

BISHOP TALBOTT, the head of the Episcopal church in Indiana, died of paralysis on Monday.

THE tariff bill will not be reported by the ways and means committee before Friday or Saturday.

THROUGH the influence of General Grant Longstreet is to retain the position of marshal of the state of Georgia.

LIEUT. DANENHOWER thinks the story of the finding of Chipp's party in Siberia is a plausible one, and may be true.

THE Democrats of the Massachusetts legislature have nominated Samuel W. Bowditch for United States senator. Butler has declined to be a candidate under any circumstances.

A GREAT cocking main between Louisville and New York birds will be fought in the latter city about the middle of February. The stakes are $1,000 on the main and $100 on the battle.

GOVERNOR FOSTER, of Ohio, says that while the debt of the State is being decreased every year, the debts of the cities, counties and incorporated villages are steadily increasing. The last year the increase of these debts was $1,752,250.

THE tariff bill in the senate will be bitterly opposed by Mr. Beck and in the house by Hon. John G. Carlisle. Under such leadership the fight will be hotly waged. The iron and steel schedule will receive Mr. Carlisle's particular attention.

ADJUTANT GENERAL NUCKOLS, it is said, will soon present to congress a bill to reimburse the state for money expended for equipping military companies during the last war. The state has already received $36,211 81, but it is claimed there is a large amount still due.

THE American Register says: The lowest amount now paid maimed soldiers is $18 per month, which is for the loss of one hand or one foot; the largest $37.50 which is for the loss of one leg at the hip. The latter class certainly ought to be pensioned more liberally than the former. It is remarkable that the number is so small considering how many suffered amputation and survived the operation. As a rule the constitution was seriously shattered and life shortened. The Western Argus says that "the number of southern soldiers thus maimed is relatively as great as of those thus injured in Union armies. They, like the rest of the southern people, were left wretchedly poor. No tariff, except that on sugar, is operative advantageously for southern soldiers. They have and ask for no government maintenance, and are entitled to none. But the lowest sum paid beneficiaries of the pension act supplies plain food and clothing in country life, and no government has ever done or can do more than this for those who have served it. The wrongful feature of the pension laws consists in the fact that officers, who suffered and did least, are paid most. Government benefactions should be equalized and fraud made impossible by publishing in each congressional district its list of pensioners."

THE Washington Sentinel, one of the soundest of Democratic publications, inveighs against the Pendleton civil service bill. It declares that what "there is good in it is already in existence" and in practice. Its many bad new features, if put in operation, will astonish the people. There is no sincere reform in the bill. It is a mere sham from beginning to end. It will enable the Republicans, if they control the Senate, to keep in every Republican partisan, though in 1884 the Democrats elect their President. The latter will then even be unable to remove the three examining commissioners! Under the competitive examination clause the very best clerks can be ousted, if it is desired to do so. Whilst it gives the political party in power a certain tenure of office, it gives no tenure of office to the poor clerks."

THE currency of the United States consists of: Greenbacks, $346,681,016; national currency, $362,727,647; gold in the treasury, $148,435,473; silver dollars in the treasury, $72,414,977; other silver coin, $30,761,935; coin in national banks, $102,362,063; coin in other banks, $17,892,500; estimated coin in circulation, $387,562,793; gold certificates, $35,408,540; silver certificates, $73,095,660; fractional currency and other items, $17,000,000;—total $1,614,342,704. The currency of the country is therefore $3 per capita for its population of 52,000,000. There is no commercial country having so small a volume of currency in proportion to the number of its people.

GOVERNOR BEN BUTLER, of Massachusetts, proposes to revolutionize the pardon system in that state. He recommends the establishing of a system of pardoning processes conceding liberty each year to a fixed percentage of the whole number of convicts. Those are to be liberated and given a share of their earnings whose reform is best illustrated by their conduct.

MR. CONKLING can't say pleasant things except to women. He speaks of Cornell as "that lizard on the hill;" of Mr. Arthur, as "the prize ox at the country fair;" or as "the dead cat I threw at my enemies in the Chicago convention."

AS the books of the burned hotel at Milwaukee have not been recovered, it has not yet been ascertained how many were killed, but the death roll, as known, numbers eighty-one.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers.

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro., Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable.

J. T. HAYES.

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

THE REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

NOTICE.

IT having been asserted that I am preparing to move to the country and give up my interest in the Sewing Machine business, I take this method of announcing to my friends and the public that there is not a word of truth in it except that I will move my family to the country but will continue to sell the old RELIABLE SINGER at the same place, second street, opposite postoffice, and run my wagons in the country as heretofore. Competitors please notice the above. I am thankful to the public for the large patronage I have received for the passed nine years, and respectfully solicit a share in the future.

Premium to Subscribers.

We have made arrangements by which we can give to every new subscriber to the DAILY and WEEKLY BULLETIN who may pay for the paper in advance, and to every old subscriber who renewshissubscription, "A treatise on the Horse," by B. T. Kendall, M. D., of Enosburg Falls, Vermont. It is a practice and very useful work, containing 100 pages with an index of diseases, which give the symptoms, causes and best treatment of each; a table giving all the principal drugs used for the horse with the ordinary dose, effects and antidote when a poison; a table with an engraving of the horse's teeth at different ages with rules for telling the age of the animal; a valuable collection of recipes and much other valuable information for horse owners. It also has 65 fine engravings showing positions assumed by sick horses better than can be taught in any other way.

Resolutions.

a quiet, orderly citizen, while Watson's reputation for general cussedness is good as anybody's.

The cold weather has caught quite a number of our citizens without coal, some of them claim it is not their fault as the wagoners contracted last spring early to haul it. I am authorized to state that the citizens of Mt. Olivet will present a little hatchet to any wagoner driving from here, who will tell the truth and shame the devil. SCRIBE.

Still Alive With a Broken Neck.
Salt Lake Tribune.

The miner Sullivan, who was injured by a cave in the lead mine, Bingam, a few days since, is still alive. This is a very interesting case. The neck is broken—that is, the spinal column is dislocated. How long he can live is, of course, a matter of conjecture. His head is the only live part of him at present.

A New Fashion in Hair.
Globe-Democrat.

There are unmistakable signs in the sky of fashion that a boom in red hair is gathering for a descent upon us—not the sort of red hair which is orange hued and too utterly Milesian, but that other and softer kind, suggestive of very ripe corn "and the crimson tinge which makes the waving harvest field so beautiful."

Born to Rule.
Courier-Journal.

That was a foolish writer who said that the woman's rights leaders did not have husbands and children. It is in the domestic circle that woman acquires her habit of governing, and it is not remarkable that she should yearn to enlarge her powers, and boss, not only her husband and the workmen who come to repair the house, but the nation itself.

Charles Guiteau the Second.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—The mayor's clerk sent to the post office for a letter detained for postage. The letter was post marked January 13, and read:

Mayor Palmer: I am going to kill old Gov. Butler in five months and twenty-eight days from to-day. Then I will choose you for governor of old Massachusetts. I sent him warning. I have sworn it.

CHARLES GUTEAU, SECOND.

A College Without a Student.

West Point Star.

Williamsburg, once the seat of the learning, wealth, fashion and social position of Virginia, seems to be fast going to decay. The college has entirely gone down. Last year there was only one student—this year none. The President has a splendid residence just out of town, and the buildings are quiet and lonely looking, and seem to hide within their walls much of wisdom, but this is all that is left of the once proud seat of learning, William and Mary College.

Personal Remarks.

David R. Atchison, United States senator from Missouri from 1843 to 1855, is still living, at the age of 77. He has a farm of about 1,000 acres near Gower, Mo.

Mr. Whittier, the poet, is bothered very much by autograph hunters. He tells a reporter that during 1882 he received between 2,000 and 3,000 letters asking for his autograph.

Weston, the pedestrian, is making successful temperance lectures in England on "Exercise vs. Tonics." He claims to have walked 56,000 miles in the last fourteen years on a temperate diet and total abstinence.

Yung Wing, the second officer in rank of the former Chinese mission in Washington and the original promoter of the scheme of educating Chinese boys in the United States, is reported to have been appointed chief magistrate of the city of Shanghai. He is a Christian and a graduate of Yale college and has an American wife.

Gen. Beauregard is a short, shapely old gentleman, with gray hair, white moustache and a ruddy face. He has the appearance and accomplishments of a courtier of the days of Louis XIV., and, withal hosts of friends. He has lost two wives and has a married son and daughter in New Orleans.

James Collins, of South Lawrence, Mass., is in his 110th year. Born in Ireland, he was left an orphan at the age of six months, and buried the last of his five brothers over sixty years ago. After living ninety-five years on a farm in his native Erin, he concluded to seek his fortune in the land of the free, making the voyage with little discomfort. He buried his wife forty years ago, and is cared for by five of his children living in Lawrence. He talks, hears and sees well, never took medicine, and never was sick, saws wood and walks or exercise, and has still on his head locks of his own hair, of which the genuine Irish auburn has never been silvered by time.
